The above is a view of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ Camp Grounds where the Mennonite General Conference was held August, 1929. In the foreground are the parking grounds. The large white tent to the right is the Dining Tent. The large tabernacle where the meetings were held is located in the woods back of the tent. A few of the cottages may be seen to the right of the tent. This was the most largely attended General Conference ever held. See article on page 4.

INTRODUCTION

The annual Year-Book and Directory again lies before you. It reminds us that we have again left another year in the past and are one year nearer eternity. It reminds us also that since time is so rapidly passing we have to make good use of the time that the Lord sees fit to grant us in the future to labor in His kingdom. The articles in the Year Book are largely retrospective. Brethren active in the various organized church activities have given us summaries of the work that has been done during the past year.

The work has been largely routine. No great advancements have been made in any line of work, and yet in all fields we believe some progress has been made. Our missions in India and South America have been growing, although no phenomenal developments have taken place. We are glad, however, that this year we have the privilege of listing a new station in our mission territory in India. At Dondi, about thirty-five miles southeast of Dhamtari in a straight line, in a new territory, is where Bro. and Sister Ralph Smucker are now located. This is a new field that is in great need of the saving message of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Six furloughed missionaries and one new missionary have gone to the India field during the year.

In South America no new stations were opened, but the work at the established places has been strengthened and numerically the church shows some gains. Some of the newer work, such as the orphanage and the printing plant, promises great things for the advancement of the Cause in South America. The work for the present year looks encouraging from many angles, in spite of the severe opposition that Satan and his agents are putting up. Two missionaries on furlough returned to the field last year.

The mission work in the home land has also seen a number of advancements. Two new mission churches were erected—at Tampa, Fla., and Washington, D. C. Bro. Mellinger tells about the work at these places in his article. During the coming year extensive improvements are planned for the buildings at the Children's Welfare Home, Kansas City, Kans. A greater interest in work in the rural fields is also being taken at this time, and we hope to hear of considerable progress in this line of work during the present year.

In the educational work we have also seen some progress. A new dormitory at Goshen College, called the John S. Coffman Hall, was erected during the past year. Considerable work was done on the work of the Endowment Fund for the colleges at Hesston and Goshen, although the desired amount is not yet raised.

In the home churches in most cases the figures for this year show an upward trend. The total for the Mennonite Church in United States, Canada, India, and South America now stands at 46,869, a gain of 417 over last year. This is not a phenomenal growth, but we are glad that the dial points forward and not backward. Let us pray that still greater victories may be made for the Kingdom during 1930.

The Conference lists have been revised, the lists of workers at our missions and institutions have been brought up to date, and the Directory of names of bishops, ministers, and deacons of all branches of the Mennonite Church has been thoroughly revised, and all are as nearly accurate as they could be made with the information that was furnished us by scores of people from many different places. We trust you will find much material here that will help you to keep informed of the progress of the Mennonite Church, and let us unite our prayers and our efforts for greater progress as the years go by, if the Lord tarries.

GENERAL CONFERENCE

By D. J. Johns

The Mennonite General Conference of 1929 was held at the Mennonite Brethren in Christ camp grounds about seven and one-half miles southwest of Goshen, Indiana, August 28-30.

Preparation

Long before this time the Indiana-Michigan Mennonite Conference had extended an invitation to General Conference to hold one of its meetings in this district. This invitation was accepted for the year 1929. Then came the task to the Executive Committee of the Indiana-Michigan Conference to find the most suitable, convenient, and acceptable place to accommodate so large a gathering as it was expected that this would be, being so centrally located. After days spent in looking around and investigating different places the above-named place was selected because here were already a commodious tabernacle and a number of cottages that could be rented by those who desired to stay on the grounds during the meeting. Also within a distance of about twenty-five miles, there were fourteen Mennonite congregations that could help to take care of the work that such an assembly naturally brings with it.

How can these people be fed and cared for in the most economical and satisfactory way? was a subject of much concern and it was finally decided that people should be lodged and given their breakfast in the homes of the brethren. Dinner and supper were to be served on the grounds at twenty cents a meal. To carry out the plans of the general committee a number of committees were appointed from the members of the surrounding congregations, such as food, lodging, conveyance, parking, tabernacle committees, etc. With much painstaking care and diligence did the moderator and these committees work out the details of these plans. By August 25 a system of cooking by steam was installed, the seating capacity of the tabernacle was much enlarged, amplifiers (or loud speakers) were installed, a very satisfactory system of parking and getting the people off the grounds at night was arranged, and the lodging committee had invitations for thousands of people to be assigned to the homes of the brethren. The general committee could say in the name of the community, Come; we welcome you and desire to serve you as best we know how.

Meetings

Several meetings were held just previous to the Conference. The Publication Board held its biennial meeting near Archbold, Ohio, Aug. 22, 23, and the Educational Board held its annual meeting at Elkhart, Indiana, Aug. 24. These gatherings brought many ministers together. They were distributed among the congregations in Lagrange and Elkhart counties for the Sunday morning service. In the afternoon all gathered at the camp ground for the first meeting of the Fundamentals Conference. The tabernacle was well-filled with attentive listeners. Several well-prepared talks were given on fundamental subjects. This work was continued in the evening. On Monday and Tuesday the committee on Arrangements was busy with its work. Other inspirational meetings were held on Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon and evening. These were enjoyed by large audiences.

Conference Proper

Conference proper convened on Wednesday morning, Aug. 28. Bishops, ministers, deacons, and about five thousand members from the United States and Canada assembled to have a part in the opening service. The meeting was inspiring and prepared the people to receive the conference sermon that was delivered by Geo. R. Brunk of Denbigh, Virginia. He set forth the doctrines and standards as taught by Christ and His apostles and practiced by the early Church clearly and forcefully. All the ministry was made to realize that there is a great work and responsibility before them to keep the Church pure so that it may be a light to the world in these perilous times in which we are living. Looking at the professed Christian Church it is to be feared that the salt has greatly lost its savor and in many cases is worth nothing but to be cast out and trodden under foot. A number of talks were given during the Conference on vital and practical subjects relative to the welfare and growth of the Church. These showed thoughtful and careful preparation as well as soundness in doctrine and faith which are praiseworthy. The spirit of unity and harmony seemed to prevail throughout the meeting. All were subject one to another. The older ones could with satisfaction and pleasure listen to the soundness of the faith expressed in the talks given by the younger brethren, who showed their earnestness and willingness to stand by the faith of our fathers and earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints. The younger ones could glean much help and encouragement from the presence and assistance of the older ones. Mutual helpfulness was in evidence. Reports from committees on almost every phase of Church work were given in an interesting and edifying way. Over thirteen thousand meals were served during these few days (the home people mostly carried their own lunches), seemingly very satisfactorily to all. The several thousand automobiles were directed into and out of the grounds day and night without any serious accidents. All in all this Conference was a spiritual feast that could be enjoyed by all God-fearing and God-loving people, a meeting that should long be remembered and should mean much to the Church in years to come.

How Was All this Brought about?

The answer to this question is simple. There was coöperation as in the time of Nehemiah. "The people had a mind to work" and as in the case of Gideon's three hundred "every man (was) in his place." From the beginning every committee took up the part of the work allotted to them and worked in harmony with all the other committees with the purpose in mind to do their part so well that no part should fail, and that their work should be constructive to the success of the Conference.

Now, brethren, has this Conference persuaded us all that we are to be workers together with but one aim and purpose in mind and that the glory of God? We are to be to the praise of His glory. If we would all teach and preach the standards we here gave our voice to, would the congregations at home hear a different note in our messages? To one who was a part of the first committee to make arrangements for a General Conference it after all seems that we have not yet reached our objective; therefore we should pray earnestly and labor diligently that the Church might be more unified and that God might be glorified to a greater degree.

Faith is the hand by which we receive everything from God.—W. B. Godbey.

THE ARGENTINE SOUTH AMERICAN CHURCH DURING 1929

By T. K. Hershey

The year 1929 has been as usual, a very busy one. The activities as seen in the following departments of the Argentine Church will give the reader of this article an idea of its life, problems, and developments.

The Argentine Church is growing, but not as rapidly as it seemed to at first. Any religious teaching in this country, while new, has a large following. Many are ready to hear and follow if they believe that by so doing they will receive material gain. Often health is the principal motive in attending. There are many religious cults that emphasize this, and as a result, believing that we were doing the same, many accepted our teaching it seems, for this reason only. Not having had a definite work of grace in their hearts, that makes one stick in spite of persecution and trials, many began to give up in despair, and are now trying other religious teachings, not for the peace of soul, but for health. Because very many people are broken down in health in this country, it causes them to search for a cure under any cloak, especially of religion. This has resulted in causing to some extent a halt in the growth of the Church which appeared to be so marked at first. Other causes are materialism, worldly pleasures, illegitimate marriage, or no marriage at all, opposition from the Catholic Church, and indifference to religious teaching.

In spite of the above dark picture the Argentine Church is settling down to a oneness in Christ and is taking on a permanency that is very encouraging to the missionaries. With respect to Christian living there are those in the different churches that would measure up to our best Christian people in the home land.

During the year special evangelistic campaigns were launched in all of our churches, with a great many confessions. Just how many will "go through" is yet to be found out. This campaign, which began in September of 1929, means that none of the converts will be baptized before 1930. Due to a lack of genuine knowledge as to what it means to accept Christ and the doctrines of the Church, converts are seldom baptized before six months of probation. During this period systematic Bible Study and instruction are given them individually. A definite personal experience of salvation, of conversion, of the new birth, and of fruits worthy of repentance are sought for in the lives of candidates for baptism.

Departments of Church Work

The one general aim in all the departments of the Argentine Mission is the building up of a strong, active, spiritual native church. To this end the Sunday school, the Young People's Meetings, the Kindergartens, the Daily Vacation Bible School, the Native Bible Readers' Work, the Orphanage Work, the Native Bible Training School, and the Printing Plant all make definite contributions.

Sunday School.

The Sunday school, the nursery of the Church, with its 35 teachers teaching upwards of 500 children each Sunday, is a great factor and force that is indispensable to the Church. Already the Church is reaping a harvest from the Sunday school. This year several member's children trained in the Sunday schools are among the converts awaiting baptism.

Young People's Meetings.

The Young People's Meeting with its regularly appointed native leaders and speakers is the Church at work. Many who in a timid way take part at first, develop into efficient workers later on, from which group the Church selects her Sunday school teachers and native workers. Practically all the members of the churches are and have been active workers and attendants of the Young People's Meeting.

Daily Vacation Bible School.

To some of the missionaries no other special effort to teach in a systematic way the sacred stories of God's Word, seems so efficient as the Daily Vacation Bible School. It fulfills a place in the Argentine Church that must, we believe, tell for time and eternity. The general outline study of the whole Bible, as well as some hand and memory work, tends to further develop the boys and girls of our Sunday schools in a very decided way. It, too, is a feeder for our Sunday schools, and trains the child's mind to think in terms of God's Word.

Native Bible Readers.

The native sisters reading the Bible in the native women's homes are instruments in God's hands who awaken the interest of people in the Argentine homes. This work has in a very marked way contributed toward the growth of the Argentine Mennonite Church. Many of our sisters in our churches to-day are members because of the faithful efforts of our native Bible readers. The seven readers last year made 4561 visits, an average of 130 a week. During the time they read, they had an audience of 8159, who listened to the inspired Word read to them. This, you can see, represents a strong arm of the Argentine Church.

Orphanage Work.

From our orphanage we are hopeful will come our future native ministry, Bible readers, and Sunday school teachers. The eighteen boys and girls now in the institution are entirely different from those who do not have daily Christian training. Some of these children can repeat by memory many whole chapters of the Bible, and can tell the sacred stories in a very marked way. One has accepted Christ, has been baptized, and is now one of our youngest Sunday school teachers in the Argentine Church. We look upon the Orphanage as a very hopeful institution for the Church.

Bible Training School.

The Bible training school is a worthy factor in the Church here. Young people picked out of our congregations, who have Sunday school training, and experience in public speaking in the Young People's Meeting are sent, when possible, to the training school for further development. The Argentine Church needs such an institution. For the same reasons that the home Church feels she needs church schools, the Argentine feels that she needs them. Several young people in training this year promise to be faithful native helpers in the future. Pray for them.

Printing Plant.

The Church in Argentina, like the Church at home, needs to place good literature into the hands of her members. To this end the Argentine Mennonite Church has a printing plant. It prints all the circulars, tracts, and church papers. It prints a monthly paper called the Camino Verdadero, (True Way) and distributes it to all parts of the Argentine. 24,000 are printed each month. It hopes some day to print its own Sunday school literature, and a regular church paper for the members only.

All these agencies have, as stated before, the same and sole purpose, that of developing a strong spiritual Christian Church in Argentina. To this end all workers in these different departments of the Church solicit the brethren in the homeland to pray.

WORK OF THE EASTERN MENNONITE BOARD OF MISSIONS AND CHARITIES

By John H. Mellinger

Among the activities of the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities was the erection of two new houses of worship, one being erected at Cottage City, near Washington, the other at Tampa, Florida.

The work at the former place was inaugurated by a few of our brethren who moved there from various parts of Virginia and as time went on the work was taken in hand by the Virginia Board of Missions and Charities. Services were mostly held in a room in the rear of Brunk's real estate office, where a goodly number were wont to meet for worship each Lord's Day.

It was the purpose of the brethren here to open a mission station in the city of Washington and as time went on the feeling became strong that such a step should be taken. By contributions given for that purpose a lot was purchased for the erection of a suitable building. The Virginia Mission Board, however, felt rather timid about the matter and seemed to feel that their constituency was too weak for a project of this nature and a proposition was made to our Board to take up the matter, which step was finally taken and the work was assumed by it.

New Meeting House, Cottage City, Md., near Washington, D. C.

The way still did not seem to open for the establishment of a mission in the city proper and after several meetings and consultations between the officials of the Board and the brethren in charge of the work it was decided to centralize the work in the immediate vicinity where they were located, as it is a thickly settled district and many could be reached both through church and Sunday school work as well as by personal effort. In the meantime the brethren and sisters constituting the congregation at this place made application to be admitted into the fellowship of the Lancaster Conference. This step was taken by the bishop in charge and the Lancaster Conference decided that a minister should be ordained to take charge of the work. After a season of careful preparation and prayer votes were taken and through the casting of the lot Bro. R. J. Shenk was chosen and ordained for the work. During the past year the lot that had been purchased in the city was exchanged for several lots situated in Cottage City, Md., where the Board decided to erect a house of worship. This was done and the building is now completed and dedicated. The work is in charge of Bro. Shenk, who is minister and superintendent, and Bro. Walter Grove, who is deacon. Sister Esther Histand of Doylestown, Pa., was appointed as a personal worker. She was later joined by Sister Martha Mosemann of Lancaster, Pa. These constitute the force of personal workers at the present time.

The work in Tampa was opened several years ago by Bro. C. B. Byer, formerly of Knoxville, Tenn. He had earlier founded a mission in Columbia, Pa. A tent was provided to hold services and Sunday school, but this was not satisfactory as the salt air soon occasioned the decay of the material of the tent and in rainy weather it was uncomfortable. Bro. Byer had frequently requested our Board to formally take over the work. This was finally done and the writer was sent to Tampa to supervise the erection of a house of worship. We arrived there on Nov. 23, 1928. Soon after this the work was begun and on Jan. 27, 1929, dedicatory services were held. The services were conducted by Bro. John B. Senger of Kinzers, Pa., who has charge of the work there during the winter season. During the past summer the work was in charge of Bro. Noah Mack of the Lancaster Conference, but he has returned as his duties called him home.

The New Church Building at Tampa, Florida

Much could be written of the work at this place, but space forbids. Suffice it to say that in this city as in all others much work can be done for the Master. Aside from this many of our people are beginning to spend their winters in this southern clime and a public place of worship conducted by our people supplies a need for them.

One large problem to be solved is the procuring of an active, energetic minister to take permanent charge of the work. There is surely a wide opening here for a minister of this kind. A fine country, a beautiful city, a healthful climate, many opportunities for Christian service, a little flock already established and we believe that many more can be gathered in.

The church building is located on Ida Street, near the southeastern limits of the city among an English speaking people. About one mile south is situated a suburb of Tampa, called Ybor (pronounced Ebo) City, which is almost solidly Spanish and Cuban. Many of the people here are entirely ignorant of the English language. Quite a number of these attend our services and seem to take quite readily to the simple Gospel. Seven of them have been received into the fellowship of the Church, having been baptized by Bro. Noah Mack during his period of service there last summer.

Bro. Lauver, missionary from South America, spent a few weeks there last summer and preached to them in their native language. His ministrations were very acceptable. We need a minister here who is willing to take up the Spanish language so that he can preach to these people. For a young man this would not be so difficult. During the short time that Bro. Mack was there he was interested in this matter to the extent that he took up the study of the language for a short time and before he came home he baptized these converts, using the Spanish language. A young minister of this kind is needed right here in Tampa. Who will respond?

MISSIONS AND CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

By S. E. Allgyer

Possibly only a few were present and remember the earnest pleading and the tears that were shed during the first Sunday school conference held in the state of Ohio, at the Zion Church near Bluffton, in 1893, when the first city mission was born, namely, the Home Mission of Chicago, in the Mennonite Church. This work was entirely new, and since the Mennonite Church was composed largely of a rural people, the task to begin work in the city was no small undertaking. Now after thirty-six years of experience, during which time many anxious moments have been spent, untold energy has been used, difficulties and hard problems have been solved, and thousands of hard earned dollars have been spent, the task of city mission work still remains, and these questions come up in the minds of some people, Does it pay? Is it worth while to continue? Or should we direct our energies along other lines, and give more attention to Foreign, Rural, or Institutional work? It is possible that those who are less spiritual will at once decide that the Church is not justified in continuing this line of activity because of the expense, and the peculiarly trying conditions in the city.

Another question comes up at once, Would the Church be justified to discontinue any part of mission work, when we consider the great commission, given by our blessed Master, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature?" The command then is to preach, "reprove, rebuke, and exhort, with all long suffering and doctrine," regardless of results.

It has been the writer's privilege, to be in touch with the city mission work, because of being Field Worker of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities for many years, and because of having spent considerable time in evangelistic work, in all the stations under the Board, and a number that are not under the jurisdiction of the general board, we can therefore speak of personal observations and experiences. It has always been a source of inspiration to me to see and know men personally, who had been absolutely down and out, but who through the work of Missions and the transforming power and merits of Jesus Christ, were made new creatures in Christ, and were living testimonies of the saving grace of Jesus Christ in every mission station.

Not only have lives been changed, but homes have become real dwelling places. Many of these people have already gone to their eternal rest, and are now beholding the face of Jesus Christ, instead of being in torment through all eternity. When we consider these souls, and the value Jesus Christ has placed on one soul, we are confident that city mission work has paid. Possibly the best and most efficient methods have not been used in winning souls for the Master. Therefore as Chairman of the City Missions Committee of the General Mission Board, I take this opportunity of soliciting suggestions or methods, that will improve our work, and I am sure our city mission superintendents will give due consideration to helpful advice that will enable them to render more efficient, and acceptable service for the cause of Missions. Will you please send us your valuable suggestions, as soon as convenient, that they may be considered properly in due time?

The work in the city is extremely difficult, because of the gross sin and iniquity that is abounding, and because of the many temptations and the organizations of every description, that are at work, through which apparently the enemy of souls is doing his best to deceive and overthrow the work of the Lord. But with these conditions existing, there is still a possibility of saving some for Christ. That was Paul's aim, to save some, and I am glad to say this is still being done in the city. Then when we also think of the seed that is sown in the hearts of innocent children, every Sunday, that may bear fruit some time, we are made to think that, after all, city mission work is worth while. Then there is another thing worthy of our earnest consideration. Many of our people are drifting toward the city, because of labor advantages, and a mission gives them a place of worship and service among their own people. There ought to be more missions for this very reason although it is a sad fact that not all of our people look for a mission in going to the city, or a place where they can render acceptable service to the Lord. We are glad, however, that others appreciate the opportunity.

As a church, or individuals, our obligation only ceases when we have done what we can to exalt the name of Jesus Christ, and to make Him known among the people. He is just as anxious to have the captives delivered, the eyes of the blind opened, and broken hearts healed, as when He was here on the earth, in person. And the only avenue, or channel through which He can carry out His aims and desires is through the Church, and since there is placed in our hands the work of reconciliation, it makes the obligation serious. The message of Jesus Christ is too important to put it up in cold storage, and let the world perish. There is great danger of our perishing with them if we neglect the full Gospel message, which we have received, and which we believe to be essential to the salvation of men. May we then be conductors, conveying the message of Jesus to a lost and ruined world, the message of love and of good will, of nonresistance, of nonconformity, and of obedience to the whole will of God.

Then there is another phase of religious activity that is commendable, and we believe pleasing to the Lord, namely, institutional work. When we consider how God was interested in the little ones of the great city of Nineveh, that they might be spared, and remember that He is the same yesterday, to-day and forever, we are confident of the fact that He is pleased when dependent little ones are cared for and given a chance in life, as well as those who are aged and infirm. The command given to Peter, was to feed the lambs, then the sheep, then again the sheep, so that none were to be neglected. In our institutions we gather these different classes together, which affords abundant opportunity to feed, and also to provide comfortable and congenial environments and surroundings for them. Regarding the aged, it certainly is encouraging to see them tenderly cared for, and given religious instruction and encouragement, in their declining days, when they especially need support and help. May God be praised for the many aged that are being cared for in these church institutions, and may the good work continue.

With reference to the institutions for children, eternity alone will reveal the vast amount of good that is being done. When I think of the hundreds of children, that have passed through these institutions, who were properly clothed, and fed, disciplined, and given school and religious advantages I believe this work will certainly bear fruit in the lives of many. It is true that some do not appreciate and make use of the instruction received, but they have at least had a chance, and the responsibility rests with them. Many, of course, are not in the homes long enough to receive lasting impressions; some go back to their parents, whose homes are not Christian; others are placed in homes, that ought to be more ideal than the opportunities any institution can offer; and still others go out into the world and are overcome by the temptations and sinful indulgences that are so prevalent. Looking at these conditions from every angle shall we become discouraged, and faint by the wayside, fold our arms and do nothing, or shall we continue our support of these institutions, in workers, prayers, and means? The work at the Orphans' Home, West Liberty, Ohio, has been blessed in various ways, the Children's Welfare Home, Kansas City, Kans., is making arrangements to enlarge its quarters, which is always an encouraging sign, and the Home for the Aged, Eureka, Ill., has been obliged to make more room for inmates. The work in these institutions is prospering, and so far as my knowledge goes regarding the eastern homes, their work also is being blessed. May God be praised for the good work. May we also appreciate a church that maintains institutions of this kind, and is putting forth some effort at least to save the lost.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR MISSION WORK IN OUR RURAL FIELDS

By Abram J. Metzler

We trust, through this article, to cause at least some to do as Christ told His disciples to do in the thirty-fifth verse of the fourth chapter of the Gospel of John, "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest." For truly we believe that there are many sections of His great harvest field that are being neglected, not for a lack of workers or funds, but because some of us have had our eyes closed to them or turned in another direction.

It is quite interesting, in studying the history of many a rural community or a rural congregation, to notice just how the teaching of God's Word was carried on in those communities in early days. Usually it was done at a great cost of time and effort on the part of some devoted man of God. But it was largely the result of the zeal of our pioneer fathers to plant the story of the Good News in every locality that our present rural churches were founded. That was largely in the days before there was any interest in city or foreign mission work.

As the various denominations and mission boards began to get interested in and to undertake mission work in the cities and foreign fields we see how that in taking this noble and worthy step, the interest and activities in the rural fields lessened in some places. However, there were other reasons for this condition also. The coming of the automobile later made it much easier for the rural folk to go quite a distance to the town churches, so that those who were really interested, by making a little effort, in many cases, could still have the privilege of hearing the Gospel message. But with all this there have been some very definite needs quite neglected in the rural fields, both close at hand and in the more remote corners of our fair country.

However, it is very gratifying to observe, from several sources and in a number of denominations, that there is an evident revival of interest in the rural field, where there are already organized congregations, where there had been work but which is now neglected, and in those places where there never were any special efforts made to plant the Gospel Seed.

The first and logical place to begin work in this revival of missionary interest in the rural communities, is in the present rural congregations. Every pastor and Christian worker should work and pray unitedly for such a heaven-sent revival that will put every member into the missionary band and alive for lost souls. There is positively no other place to begin if we wish God's blessings to be upon our efforts and to have them meet with success. It is appalling to see the hosts of sleeping church members in practically every congregation. It will take nothing short of a God-given revival to give the present Church the missionary zeal that the Apostolic Church had. When that comes we will see somewhat the same efforts put forth and much the same results that were then seen. May we as Christian men and women pray earnestly for it, and may God hasten the day.

In this connection we might give a suggestion to pastors. In every rural community there are some homes, near or far, where there are members of the family who are in touch with no Church. On the part of many pastors there has been a sad neglect in failing to get in touch with this class of people. But on the other hand where it has been done it has often met with the best of success. There seems to be a great danger, in our own denomination, for us to feel a direct responsibility for those of our own numbers and to look at the others too much as "outsiders." And let us remember that these "outsiders" are not slow in learning this too. The results are often most disastrous.

Another splendid missionary agency in the rural community is the often mentioned Sunday School. We like to think of it as the teaching agency and the organized working force of the congregation. It is quite possible for the various teachers, if consecrated and Spirit-filled, to do much more with the individuals of their classes that any pastor or evangelist.

Then we think of the open doors just outside the present congregations. It is pleasing to notice, in this growing revival of rural mission interest, the various mission Sunday schools being started. May God bless all who are in this work. Only eternity will reveal the results of your efforts. And yet we see quite a few congregations where there is apparently little interest in such work. Quite often we are certain it is a result of a lack of deep spiritual life on the part of the members of the congregations. Again we plead for that REVIVAL.

We shall now consider a field of great opportunities that needs an approach a little different from the ones above mentioned. This field comprises the rural communities of the various mountain districts of our country. These have proved to be some of the most productive fields in which to sow the Word. The Lord has greatly blessed a number of organizations which have labored in this work. And there are yet untold openings for work in places where folks are hungering for His Word. The Lord is surely pleased with the investigations being made into these fields. As one who is especially interested in this work, may we request the interest of God's people everywhere that your prayers may ascend in behalf of this great work.

May God open our eyes to these numerous opportunities and then give us grace and courage to go forth, individually, and collectively, to the task.

OUR EDUCATIONAL INTERESTS

By S. F. Coffman

The Mennonite Board of Education consists of thirty-one members who are elected trustees by the various conferences of the Mennonite Church to care for her educational interests in America. It is the particular responsibility of this Board to carry on the work of two schools that have been established and taken under the direction of the Board of Education at the request of the organizations that established them and under conditions stipulated by the Church Board, the Mennonite Board of Education. The two schools are Goshen College, established at Goshen, Ind., in 1903 and taken into the control of the Mennonite Board of Education at its organization in 1905. Hesston Academy was organized under the Mennonite Board of Education in 1908, at Hesston, Kans., assuming the title Hesston College and Bible School in 1918.

The interest of the Church in education lies in her interest in her young people. In the early days of her history in this country the Church and education went hand in hand, on account of the fact that the Church carried on a system of education for her own youth. After a period of two-hundred years conditions had entirely changed and the public school and affiliated institutions of higher learning were no longer under the direction of the Church. While some Churches established and controlled institutions for advanced learning, having established them to safeguard the spiritual interests of their children and to provide a degree of effective service for those who entered the ministerial ranks of the Church, no such schools were founded or conducted by the Mennonite Church in her earlier American history. Those of her young people who desired a higher degree of learning than that afforded in the neighborhood school were required to procure that training under conditions and under instructors that had but a slight affinity with or interest in the principles of life and faith that were dear to our people.

In the pioneer and homestead days the overflow from the parental home or colony found opportunity for the young man of small capital to establish his home on a new farm in a new community, and south, north, and west the trained young farmer continued the life of his choice and lived the faith of his fathers which he loved. Crowded from the farm by lack of means and lack of opportunity where additional land was not available young people were thrust out to opportunities of life which required less of resources and still furnished sufficient remuneration for a livelihood, entering the factory or professional life. Each required some higher degree of educational training, and hence the demand for trustworthy schools. In the pursuit of knowledge many of her young people fell away from the Church. Parental hearts were wrung with remorse because of the failure of the religious life of their children although their financial or professional success was effected. The call for an educational institution for the training of our young people for useful pursuits and honorable means of livelihood under conditions in which their faith could be preserved and fellowship in the Church maintained was a Church-wide call.

The present program of education in our Church schools indicates the demand in our Church communities for courses of instruction that meet the needs of the present generation. During the past twenty or more years there was a constant demand for Academy work for many who were deprived of high-school privileges. This department of the schools was quite prominent and fulfilled a great need. For a number of years the Academy was, in fact, the strongest department in the schools. State regulations regarding the terms of attendance in public schools has materially changed the program in our schools. More young people are attending the high schools in their home districts, as required by law. As result the College departments in our schools are more largely patronized and have demanded the most attention from the heads of our schools and from the Board. In this matter local conditions have necessitated a change of policy with regard to the

Due to the extensive and specialized requirements of the Central State Departments of Education Goshen college was not able, with limited means, to continue Normal School training for public-school teachers. Goshen College continues a standard college for training high-school teachers. Hesston is a recognized standard Junior College and offers Normal Training. The Eastern Mennonite School, under the departments in our schools under the direction of our Board.

In both Goshen and Hesston Colleges the Academy Departments have shown a great falling off in attendance. At the same time the College Departments have shown an increase. More children of Mennonite homes are attending local high schools and continuing their studies in our church colleges after completing high-school courses. In order to care for these young people our schools have strengthened their college departments.

Virginia Conference, gives a complete Academy course and two years of college work. In either of these schools such courses can be supplied as will fit one for more advanced work in any calling, or will qualify one for better service in the home Church or community.

Commercial courses are offered for those who desire to enter that field of service or fit themselves to better care for their personal needs. Domestic Science is offered as an aid to home life, or a professional career. Scientific courses are given which lay the foundation for further special study or qualify as an instructor. It is a matter of satisfaction, that in many of these courses, our young people are enabled to receive instruction under safe leadership in which the errors of science are noted and the truth of Christian faith is upheld.

It has been the particular aim of the Board of Education to afford the young people of the Church an opportunity of preparing themselves for a useful life, affording them a means of livelihood, and enabling them to be of greater service to the Church, under conditions that will inspire the confidence of the home and the Church as regards the proper spiritual environment and religious instruction of these young people. To this end, facilities such as location and equipment were provided, courses were outlined and adopted, and are constantly adjusted to present needs, and faculties are chosen and supplied to give to these young people the best instruction, help, and counsel that the Church can procure.

One of the chief aims of the Board is to provide for the religious instruction and life of her young people, and through them provide for the spiritual needs of the coming generations. Courses in Bible study and instruction in Christian doctrine and the principles of faith and practice in the Church have always been a part of the program of our schools. In more recent years these courses have been enlarged and so increased as to accommodate the needs of the various groups of students attending our schools. A four-year College Bible Course has been adopted for Hesston College, besides the courses given in other departments of the School. The same is true with regard to Goshen College in whose Bible Department the Board has been considering a more extended course for graduate work. It is the sense of the Board that the Church must provide her own young people with Biblical and Doctrinal instruction, since it is not the province of other institutions to teach and maintain the faith of our Church.

During the past two years, by the approval of the Board of Education and many local conferences, a program has been carried out, looking to the raising of endowments to maintain our schools. Up to the present time the schools have not received sufficient income, from tuition fees and accommodations furnished by the schools, to meet the heavy expenses necessary in carrying on the school work. Some income has been provided by legacies, trusts, and gifts. Each year a deficit occurs which is usually provided for through solicitations from the congregations interested. In order to meet the annual deficits the endowments were considered to be the most expedient. It has been estimated that approximately $150,000.00 will have been paid and subscribed to this fund by June, 1930. However, it is the opinion of the committees interested in this work that the amount should be increased by fifty per cent in order to provide adequate funds and place the institutions on a basis of continual support. It can be said that our institutions have been carried on economically; the buildings are erected with a view to proper accommodations without extravagance; and economy is marked in all of the departments of the school. The faculties have served at rates far below those usually received by such instructors. The Church has stood by the Board in many occasions of special need or effort in carrying on this part of her work. And the Board has the faith that the loyal support of the Church will continue to be given as her representatives, the Board Trustees, endeavor to promote the institutions that have been consecrated to God for the blessing of His sons and daughters who are anxious to fit themselves for greater service to Him whose they are, and to whom they would consecrate their talents and their lives.

In the mind of the members of the Board of Education, the Church should feel that the material problems that arise are only the incidental ones. The greatest problems are those that have to do with the spiritual interests of the Church. Home takes the first place in these matters, the local congregation is second in importance. The Church school is but an adjunct to what has been done in the home field in the preparation and training of young lives for service in the Kingdom of Christ. It is the sincere desire of the Board that its mission will not fail and it is the frequent prayer of this branch of the Church's mission that God may wisely guide, the Lord Jesus Christ accept and use, and the Holy Spirit fully direct and empower this instrumentality in the Church to glorify His name, magnify His truth, and produce living witnesses who shall bear a true testimony for Him unto the uttermost parts of the earth.

Vineland, Ont.

GREATNESS OF THAT ATONEMENT

If thou hast an eye to sin, take care to have an eye to atonement too. Let thine eye be full of tears, but let those tears act like magnifying glasses to thine eyes, to make the Cross appear a grander and a dearer thing than ever. Never let thy sin shake thy confidence in Christ, for if thou be a great sinner, glorify Him by believing Him to be a great Saviour. Do not diminish the value of the Blood whilst thou magnifiest the intensity of thy sin. Think as badly of sin as thou canst, but think right gloriously of Christ, for there is no sin, however hellish or devilish, which the Blood of Jesus cannot take away; and if the concentrated essence of everything that is diabolical in iniquity be found in thyself, yet "the Blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin," and herein we must, yea, and will, rejoice.—C. H. Spurgeon.

OUR PUBLICATION WORK

By Daniel Kauffman

The year 1929 was an exceptionally busy one for the Mennonite Publishing House. The greater part of our work consisted in printing the books and periodicals published by the House under the auspices of the Mennonite Publication Board, but considerable work was accomplished in getting out job work for other firms and organizations.

Ever since the publication of the annual book catalogue gotten out by the House we have carried an item known as "Books by Mennonite Authors." At first the list was rather limited, but it has been growing steadily year after year. Compare the list now with that found in an old catalogue of twenty years ago, and you will notice at once in the comparison, what we are talking about. During the year just closed the following books were added to the list:

Songs of Cheer, compiled by Music Committee; pages 132; number printed 5000.

True Life Stories, by Oscar Burkholder; pages 80; number printed 3000.

Fifty Bible Stories, by Ella Zook; pages 196; number printed 2500.

Nonresistance in Practice, by J. S. Hartzler; pages 48; number printed 3000.

Besides these, new editions of the following books were also printed, the figures in parentheses showing the number in the reprint edition: Doctrines of the Bible (3000), Church Hymnal (10,000), Lieder Sammlung (3000). And to this list we might also add the list of annuals published by the House, namely: 1929-30 Book Catalogue (15,000), Family Almanac (7500), Familien Kalendar (3000), Mennonite Year Book and Directory (5000), Topic Booklets (8000). To this we may add also the 600,000 pages of tracts, new or reprint, that passed over our presses, and also the weekly, monthly, and quarterly periodicals published under the auspices of the Mennonite Publication Board.

But quantity does not tell the whole story when it comes to publication work. Not, How much did we do? but, What is the quality of the work done and the motive that is behind the work? is the important question that measures the worth of any printing establishment.

The Mennonite Publishing House, being dedicated to the cause of Christ and the Church, supported by a denomination that is fundamentalist in the highest sense of the word, could not consistently aim at any other course than that set forth in the language of inspiration: "Do all to the glory of God;" "Teach all nations.....to observe all things whatsoever" our Lord commanded; "know nothing.....save Christ and him crucified." We lay no claims to perfection in the work of striving to live up to these ideals, but we wish to say frankly that such has been our aim, and to this end we invite the prayers of all who are committed to like standards.

Our effort to describe our publication work during the year would be incomplete if we did not include a mention of the biennial meeting of the Mennonite Publication Board held during the month of August at the Central Church near Archbold, Ohio. Other meetings have been held which we highly appreciated, but we believe that we are but giving voice to the general conviction of those present when we say that in this case we had one of the most enlightening and satisfactory meetings in the history of the Board. People are learning more and more of the work and worth and problems and importance of our publication work, and those nearest to the work are appreciating it more and more as the years go by. And not the least among the important facts connected with the aims of the House is that it has no purpose save the one aim of promoting the highest interests of every individual, congregation, institution, organization, and conference in the Church.

It is needless to say that we have our shortcomings. In no sense of the word have we risen to the standards to which we desire to attain. We are not reaching as many people with our literature as we would like to reach. But with the help of the Lord, the guidance of the Holy Spirit, the coöperation and prayers of the supporting church, and the infusion of new blood constantly, we are pressing forward with hope.

A few changes have been made during the year. In the reorganization at the time of the Board meeting a few changes were made in committee appointments, as there had previously been a few changes made in Board representatives from the several conference districts. But on the whole the official roster, both on the Board and in the House, is not very much different from what it has been a number of years. In this connection it might be well to notice that the President of the Board, Bro. J. S. Shoemaker, and the General Manager of the House, Bro. Aaron Loucks, have held their places since the organization of the Board in 1908. Perhaps the most important change made during the year was the change in editors of the Christian Monitor; Bro. Clayton F. Derstine retiring after six years of efficient service, and Bro. John L. Horst being chosen as his successor. Were we to notice the changes which took place in the equipment of the publishing plant, we might note the replacement of some of the old machinery with new units better adapted to our present needs.

As we face the realities and opportunities of another year, we breathe a prayer to God that each of us connected with this work may be true to Him who has called us to this service and fill our respective spheres in a way that is pleasing to Him and upbuilding to the Cause.

"The Lord is my shepherd."

IF I SHOULD DIE TO-NIGHT

Oh, what if I should die to-night,
Before appears the morning light;
What would they do when on my bed
They looked, and saw that I was dead?

Oh, would they noisily lament
With light and shallow sentiment?
Or would their anguish deeper be,
With ever-longing thoughts of me?

And would they talk of deeds I'd done
To brighten earth? or are there none?
What would transpire on earth below
If I to-night were called to go?

Then I'd be borne to realms of light,
Where all our faith is changed to sight,
Where Jesus sits on God's right hand,
And angels round the great throne stand.

But when I'd meet Him face to face,
Who died and saved me by His grace,
Oh! would I bow my head in shame
Because I'd honored not His Name?

Or would to me a crown be given
For souls I'd won from sin to Heaven?
What change I wonder, would there be Both here and there, should He call me?

ACTIVITIES OF THE ONTARIO BROTHERHOOD IN 1929

By L. S. Weber

General Conditions

The past year has been one of gratifying advance along various lines in the Mennonite community in Ontario, in spite of a shortage in ministers and bishops in a few sections. The ordination of two or three brethren to the work of the ministry is becoming an urgent necessity to fill the places of those who have been obliged to lay down their work, and to make provision for the ever-expanding limits of our sphere. A few sections are also yearning for more adequate bishop oversight. It is hoped that several ordinations will take place during the current year to meet these pressing needs.

The Annual Conference

The Annual Church Conference was held with the Wideman congregation near Markham. The statistical report of the secretary showed a total membership on June 1, 1929, of 2132. This was an increase over the previous year of 101, a wholesome and encouraging growth. In all there are 27 preaching posts, including four rural mission stations—Western New York, Sherkston, Bothwell, and Detweilers, and one city mission at Toronto. A few new features of our Conference activities are: The appointment of a Conference Historian, a Young People's Problems Committee, and an Educational Problems Committee. The Conference considered and expressed favorable attitudes towards establishing a fundamental book store somewhere in Ontario. A representative of the Mennonite Publishing House has since made a study of this proposition, but it was found inadvisable to start a book depot in Ontario for the present.

Reorganization of Mission Forces

The largest piece of work of the Ontario Conference for the year was the amalgamation and reorganization of all our mission forces. A previously appointed committee presented a proposed constitution, which was adopted after some minor revisions. The name of the new organization is The Ontario Mennonite Mission Board. Its purpose is to unify all the missionary activities of the Ontario district. The Board is to be represented by all the congregations that have a membership of 20 or over. Besides the executive committee there are three standing committees: (1) Finance; (2) Rural Missions; (3) City Missions. Each committee is composed of five members, and the same person is secretary for all committees. Since the June meeting of Conference a charter has been secured from the Ontario Government, and the inaugural meeting of the Board was held in September. It is hoped that this new machinery will help to increase our interest and efforts in missions, although it will probably take about a year to get everything into good running order. The new Board is operating under the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. The personnel of the new organization will be found in another part of this Year Book.

The Sunday School Conference

This Conference held with the First Mennonite congregation at Kitchener was housed in the capacious M. B. C. tabernacle east of Kitchener, with an attendance of nearly 2000. Besides a group of local speakers, the following from other points appeared on the program: A. C. Good, Sterling, Ill.; Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Esch of India; A. S. Horst, Ephrata, Pa.; and Emma Zimmerman of Harrisonburg, Va. An important outcome of this year's Conference was the impetus given to Reading Circles in the Sunday Schools in addition to the regular Sunday school libraries. The plan is for ten or twenty persons to purchase a book for each person in the group, and to exchange and read all the books in the circle. After all the books have been read they may be exchanged with any other existing circle. Already there are circles in operation in the Wideman and Toronto Sunday Schools, and others are being organized.

Local Mission Meetings

A number of holidays, civil and religious, were utilized throughout the year for conducting local mission meetings. In a number of cases three or four congregations have united for periodical meetings to disseminate missionary information, to encourage a deeper consecration to the task of evangelism, and to foster a sense of stewardship. Meetings were held on New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter, Dominion Day or Thanksgiving Day according to local choice. Some of these Mission Meetings have pledged themselves to support one or more missionaries or missionaries' children.

Miscellaneous Activities

During the year a fine brick church house was erected and dedicated by the Shantz congregation near Baden, Ont. This fills a long-felt need for a more adequate building to accommodate this growing group of believers.

A number of evangelists and missionaries from the United States, South America, and India assisted our ministering brethren in evangelistic efforts. Among those who assisted, according to information in the hands of the present writer were: E. E. Miller, S. M. Kanagy, Dr. C. D. Esch, Otis N. Johns, W. G. Lauver, A. C. Good, and S. G. Shetler. Our own evangelists, C. F. Derstine, Oscar Burkholder, and Jesse B. Martin, helped not only in the Ontario districts but in other parts of Canada and the United States.

A large representation from Ontario attended the Young People's Institute at Goshen in connection with the General Conference. Of the 28 young people enrolled from Ontario all reported spiritual help. Also over 100 of our people attended the General Conference and were enabled to drink in the benefits of that great assembly.

The Lord has smiled upon us in many ways during 1929. The victories are due to His presence and power, the defeats and failures are due to the weakness and lethargy of us, His servants. We face 1930 with hope and confidence, trusting that in His name we shall be able to set up His banner and rally loyally around His standards.

A GREAT BOOK

There are 593,493 words in the Old Testament, and 181,253 words in the New Testament. This is less than one per cent of the number of words contained in new books published each year in the United States, and yet the Bible has lived through countless ages, while other books, after a brief period of popularity, are quickly forgotten. And, incidentally, the Bible is still the best selling Book in both this country and England.—Unknown.

O LORD, I COME

O Lord, I come to Thee just now,
That I may feel Thy precious love;
And then before Thee humbly bow,
And feel Thy Spirit from above

As on life's journey I will tread,
And meet the evils to offend;
I will regret what I have said,
And on Thee, Lord, then to depend.

O Lord, please cast away my sins,
That I may be in white array;
Then into Heaven enter in,
And from Thee then no more to stray.—A Volunteer.

GROWTH IN THE PACIFIC COAST DISTRICT

By Omar G. Miller

There is a time in the adolescence of youth that an awakening sense of the fitness of things in their proper place and proportion causes embarrassment. As the grown brother may look with good natured indulgence upon his growing younger brother, so sometimes its elders may need to look upon the growing of the Pacific Coast District.

In a number of ways the past year has been an unusual one for this district. And the uninformed or careless observer may fail to see that fundamental progress has been made. Misunderstanding and lack of consideration of all needs made official action necessary to the extent of curtailing certain activities in order to bring about proper adjustment. Thus more permanent results and greater accomplishments are being made possible. Greater willingness is being shown to work for the good of the whole body. Patience and a better understanding of each other is laying firmer the foundation for united effort. It is becoming more evident that only in the practice of conservative principles will permanent and substantial growth be made.

The work at the Mennonite Gospel Mission at Portland, Oregon, continues to be the center of interest for possibly more members of the District than any other single activity. We rejoice in the blessing of the Lord upon this institution. Much good is being done and the great need is sufficient funds that its activities may be properly expanded and the whole work be benefited.

Commendable work is being done at the Los Angeles Mennonite Mission. However circumstances have directed the policy of this station to be a little different from that of the station at Portland. The work at the former place is almost totally supported by the local members themselves, and the actual work largely done by self-supporting workers. An outstanding feature at this place has been the very liberal financial contributions that have gone to the support of other mission interests under the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities.

A separate article would be required to enumerate the details of the work done by each of these Missions. But some features of the rural activities should receive special mention here. Not all opportunities have been fully utilized. In some cases qualified workers are not available, in other cases obstacles of various kinds have temporarily checked advance, but as rapidly as possible needy fields are being worked.

Each quarter the congregations of the Willamette Valley gather in an all day Mission Meeting. Each congregation of the Valley in its turn arranges the program. These practical programs bring inspiring discussions in keeping with the purpose of the meeting. The meeting this fall (1929) was the seventy-third. This meeting has been a positive factor in the maintenance of missionary spirit. The congregations of this field have engaged in various activities, such as services in the public institutions. In one rural field work has been developed until now a resident pastor is needed to properly continue the work.

The two Idaho congregations are not so favorably located but effort is made to have a joint meeting at least once a year. A semiannual meeting has been desired by some but has not yet been effected. A small community midway between the two congregations has been given some service from each congregation. One Mennonite family is located in this community.

During the past summer a rural vacation Bible school was attempted at the Bethel Congregation near Aurora, Oregon. Very encouraging attendance was obtained, about forty daily, the greater percentage of these from non-Mennonite homes. Other activities are conducted by congregations and individuals but this may suffice for the main features within the District.

A most encouraging factor to the workers in this District is the loyal and helpful attitude of students returning from our own Mennonite schools. A few locate outside the District. However there have been worthy replacements from other fields, and so the work profits on the whole. In due proportion the presence of the delegates from the Dakota-Montana and Alberta-Saskatchewan Conferences, and visiting brethren at the time of our annual conference has been helpful and encouraging. Evangelists from other districts cheerfully contribute their labors to our revival efforts. Last winter we were privileged to have with us in this capacity Bro. Allan Erb of La Junta, Colorado. At the time of this writing (December, 1929) Bro. Milo Kauffman of Hesston, Kansas, is laboring in the District.

A firm tone prevails throughout the District in the matter of doctrine. All effort and endeavor of the Conference body seeks to hold the faith and practice of the Mennonite Conference of the Pacific Coast District on a safe basis and in harmony with the Mennonite General Conference. No opposition to this sound policy has been evident. And we hope by the grace of God to continue with a steady growth in the right direction. If zeal and personal conviction be tempered with love and good will our united effort will bear fruit worthy to receive the continued blessing of God. "And every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour. For we are labourers together with God."

THE POSITION OF THE EARLY MENNONITE CHURCH

Regarding Liberty of Conscience and General Toleration Within the Church

By John Horsch

Concerning the position of the Swiss Brethren on the principle of liberty of conscience we have a full statement from the pen of their chief literary opponent, Heinrich Bullinger, the successor of Zwingli as the head of the state church of Zurich. In his larger work against them he quotes extensive statements of the Brethren to the point. Some of these statements follow:

"It is wrong to compel any one by force or coercion to embrace the faith, or to put to death any one for the sake of his erring faith."

"One can and should not compel any one to accept the faith, for faith is a free gift of God."

"It is improper that in the church any sword other than that of the divine Word should be used; and it is much more improper that matters of religion and faith should be decided by the civil government."

"The secular kingdom should be separated from the church, and no prince should exercise authority in the church."

"The Lord has simply commanded to preach the Gospel, and not to compel any one by force to accept it. Besides it would not at all be possible to compel all Turks, Jews, and heathen to confess the Gospel."

"Both faith and unbelief are invisible and spiritual and are hidden in the human heart, so that even the church cannot judge them; how, then, can the worldly power undertake it with the carnal sword?"

"It is the business of the great Judge to separate the tares from the good seed. This will be done by Christ at the last day only. For when in the parable the servants came to their master saying, 'Wilt thou that we go and gather in the tares?' his reply was, 'Nay, lest while you gather up the tares, you root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest; then I will tell the reapers to gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to be burned.' And since the tares are the children of the wicked one, or of the evil doctrine, and the Lord has clearly ordered, 'Let both grow together,' therefore the government should not undertake to destroy the tares by punishment and death."

"Paul gives definite instruction as to the attitude which the church should take toward a heretic and says, 'A man that is an heretic after the first and second admonition exclude.' So Paul instructs the church to exclude a heretic, not to torture, punish, and kill him."

"The apostles did not appeal to the worldly sword, nor asked government to punish heretics, and nevertheless spread the Gospel by preaching in all the world. Therefore in our day also the church should give attention to preaching, and the authorities should abstain from punishing heretics."

"The true church of Christ has the characteristic that it suffers or endures persecution but does not persecute."

"To put to death an erring man before he has repented means to destroy his soul. Therefore one should not kill him but wait for his conversion lest both body and soul be destroyed. Often a man who is in fatal error, forsakes it and turns to the truth."

Bullinger undertakes to show that these opinions on liberty of conscience are heretical. After quoting the Brethren, as just stated, he adds his refutation point for point. His arguments are of various kinds, a number being taken from the Old Testament Scriptures. He says: "God has given His people clear commandments as to dealing with sectarians and deceivers, that is to say with those who would cause division and teach the people another doctrine than that which they have obtained from God.... These He has commanded to put to death. See Deuteronomy, chapters 13, 17, 18."

Church Discipline Vs. Persecution

The Brethren, on the other hand, taught that the Christian Church knows no punishment beyond excommunication. They pointed out that the state church itself did not by any means approve of the death penalty for all transgressions which, according to the Mosaic law, were punishable by death. In the great debate of Zofingen (1532) the Brethren said, "Clearly the Lord has instituted in His church no severer punishment than excommunication, which was also practiced by Paul. If now you would inflict punishment according to the Law which is based on justice, the adulterer would have to be put to death without mercy and could not be spared, even if he repented. Thus the Law demands punishment according to strict justice, but the Gospel according to love by excommunication for repentance..... Therefore we do not admit nor confess that the church has power to use the sword, or to mete out punishment beyond excommunication."

Bullinger attempts to show that it is not only perfectly right but quite necessary to forbid "Anabaptism" on pain of death and to execute those who transgress such an ordinance of the authorities. He writes: "There are those who say that by approving of and defending such punishment (for the Swiss Brethren) we simply press the sword into the hands of those who have always persecuted and put to death evangelical people and who will now storm and rage the more furiously. Those who assert this are doing us an injustice. For the fact that some do misuse the sword in such a way is no valid argument that it should not be used at all." He proceeds to show that to persecute and kill "evangelical people" is "a grievous, great sin which is crying to God for vengeance," while it is a good work to put to death Anabaptists. "Since we admonish the Christian governments not to tolerate dissenters," he says further, "they (the Brethren) call us men of blood who put to death good people who refuse to believe what we believe and practice." Again Bullinger warns the Roman Catholic authorities not to imprison and execute "evangelical people" under the pretense that they are Anabaptists.

The Idea of General Toleration Within the Church

The statements from Bullinger, which were quoted above, set forth clearly the position of the Swiss Brethren on the principle of liberty of conscience, and show that on this point they differed radically from Swiss state church Protestantism. They disapproved of compulsory membership and believed that a New Testament church is necessarily separated from the state. Now, various European Mennonite writers have expressed the opinion that the early Mennonites differed from the Protestant state churches also by teaching general toleration and liberty within the Church, in other words, that their attitude was one of religious individualism and of virtual indifference to doctrine and creed. These writers have obviously never inquired into the question of the attitude of the Brethren on the point of the character and authority of Scripture. For those who recognize and accept the Scriptures as the Word of God, as did the early Mennonites beyond any possible doubt (compare the article on this theme in the Christian Monitor for March, 1930) it is impossible to be neutral or indifferent on the question of doctrine and creed.

In the most recent work on American Mennonite history the statement is made that the Swiss Brethren aimed to establish a church which "was to be as free and voluntary as a social club." But what ground is there for such an assumption? Would a religious body granting the same freedom as a social club be a Christian Church? The vital difference between a true Christian church and a social club is that the liberty of the church is bounded and defined by the Word, while a social club makes no pretense of recognizing the authority of Scripture. As Martin Luther expressed it before the Diet of Worms: "I submit to the authority of the Holy Scriptures and my conscience is bound by the Word of God." So far from granting to the church the freedom of a social club, the Swiss Brethren, as pointed out in the article mentioned above, took the principle that the Christian's freedom is bounded by the Word so seriously that the state church theologians found fault with their attitude on this question.

On the other hand, the early Mennonites held that the state, being a non-religious institution, can and should take an attitude of creedal neutrality, or general religious toleration, while the church should take an attitude of political neutrality rendering obedience to any civil government, provided that it can be given with a good conscience. This means then that the state should grant general toleration in religious things and the church should take a similar attitude of toleration in political matters.

Liberty a Negative Principle

The writers who have supposed that the Mennonite Church is founded on the principle of liberty, have evidently failed to realize that liberty is a negative principle and cannot be made the foundation of a church. People in general—atheists not excepted—believe in liberty. This does not by any means make them Christians, or unite them religiously.

Again, we must keep in mind that the early Mennonites did not strive for political freedom. It has been supposed by certain writers that their aim was, "A free church in a free state." This would indicate that the movement with which they were identified was partly of a political character. This was not the case. They were not politically interested. The liberty which they desired was liberty to serve God according to the dictates of their conscience. This was denied them by state church Protestantism.

"AND WHAT DID YOU?"

Robert Davis

"I worked for men," my Lord will say
When we meet at the end of the King's Highway.
"I walked with the beggar along the road,
I kissed the bondsman stung by the goad,
I bore my half of the porter's load.
And what did you?" my Lord will say,
"As you traveled along the King's Highway?"

"I made life sweet," my Lord will say

"I smoothed the path where the thorns annoy,
I gave the mother back her boy,
I mended the children's broken toy.
And what did you?" my Lord will say,
"As you traveled along the King's Highway?"

"I showed men God," my Lord will say,
"As I traveled along the King's Highway.
I eased the sister's troubled mind;
I helped the blight to be resigned;
I showed the sky to the souls grown blind.
And what did you?" my Lord will say
When we meet at the end of the King's Highway.

WHAT SHALL WE READ?

By Oscar Burkholder

This is a momentous question. We are asking it of ourselves because it is evident that we have not fully answered it. It may be that one might answer it satisfactorily providing that the desired literature were always available, but there is so much reading matter thrust upon us nowadays, and more or less of it is read, that we need a few governing principles to guide us in our selections, and to give us courage to reject that which is injurious. Rather than compile a list of books and periodicals it is our purpose to discuss a few well tried principles, that, if accepted, will help us to make selections that will be helpful and satisfying. However, before considering such principles, it may be well to state that desires and tastes differ, that certain age groups need what other age groups do not need, and that certain vocations call for a specific literature that would not apply to other vocations. Recognizing these distinctions may we consider first of all

What Shall the Children Read?

The first group of children that enjoy reading is the group that cannot read. Here we find the girls and boys under school age, but who like to look at picture books. Very soon they discover that the several lines below the pictures are reading matter, and in response to their continual questioning, they gather the information that those lines tell the story in the picture. And since they want to know all about the picture they soon form the habit of asking some one to read to them. And right here is the first and sweetest opportunity of cultivating and training a legitimate desire by reading to these inquiring, inquisitive and fast developing minds stories that will both satisfy and teach them. Stories in the Bible, of nature, and of animals are most instructive at this period. But the children do not remain in this helpless, dependent state very long. Soon after they begin school we find them trying first one book, then another, and laboriously spelling out the words. For some time they get but very little sense out of all their effort, but while parents are busy with the cares of life time passes rapidly, and, almost before we are aware of it, the little child, to whom we had read simple stories, is so wrapped up in some book of fiction, that when bedtime comes it requires considerable persuasion to induce it to lay the book away until another day. In this changing period of life, until the child is nearing maturity, no parent can be too watchful nor too concerned in selecting reading matter that makes for stable character building. It may seem an expensive proposition to buy many books for a growing family, but it is the writer's conviction that money is well invested when good books are purchased and placed at the disposal of the children. Here it might be well to note that a good encyclopedia, books on travel, especially illustrated ones, animal, bird, and insect books, and magazines concerning machinery and invention will be read and examined and reëxamined many times if they are available. And while the boy is looking and wondering about the peculiarities of the habits of a foreign country, or trying to understand how a certain toy or machine could be made according to a certain description he has found, not only is his mind developing along legitimate channels, but he escapes much of the mischief in which he might be otherwise engaged. And the girl, being contradicted in some statement concerning some subject about which she feels certain, quickly resorts to the encyclopedia and either returns in triumph or is chastened in defeat, both experiences preparing her for future resourcefulness. But our boys and girls will soon be young men and young women so our next question is What Shall the Young People Read?

The period of young manhood and young womanhood has now been reached. The time is now here when the choice of books ought to be safely left to them. But whether the young person chooses what is good for him depends largely upon what he has been reading heretofore. If the boy has been mechanically inclined it will be seen that he has chosen some especial line, and every time he goes to town, or on a trip to a distant city, he will have some especial volume he would like to procure. The girl will be looking for books on character building, or home making, providing she has not succumbed to the evil habit of devouring fiction by the night. If the parent has been wise and reasonably liberal the probabilities are that his troubles on the reading question, as far as the dangers are concerned, are practically over. However, there is yet one essential duty that must now be discharged by the Christian parent, and that is, in addition to just reading, literature must be systematically studied. Happy is the parent who has so guided his family that the Bible has become necessary to each child, and while they may not have understood very much as they read, that they may now approach the great hidden truths of the matchless Book in a systematic way, and because of the years of development may now more easily acquire its teachings. And while the Bible should be the most important book and is in the estimation of the Christian young man or woman, it is positively helpful to our young people to study other literature, and Christian literature should receive first emphasis. They should read books that have for their themes the overcoming life, the secrets of moral success, the control of the body, or in other words, messages that hold up to the young man and woman the confident possible accomplishment of victory over life's problems, rather than defeat. Of course it is true that these truths are both taught and exemplified by Bible characters and it is highly desirable that these be given place, but there is great encouragement in following the record of great moral and spiritual victories such as are exemplified in the lives of Mueller and a host of others. There is yet another class of books that ought to find a large place in the reading of the young man or woman. Books on missions should be especially studied, for it will mean much to the individual, and to the church at home, as well as to the spread of missions, if the youth of to-day assimilate missionary literature and information. If the young man does not know about Africa he most assuredly will neither go to, nor give to the cause in, that field. But as he reads of conditions there, and difficulties in the way, and privations of some who have gone, he becomes stirred to action on behalf of the work—this field. However, as surely as children grow into womanhood and manhood, our young people soon find themselves with youth behind them and the problems of life before them stripped of all their glamour and clothed in genuine seriousness. Hence our next question must be

What Shall the Older Folks Read?

There seems to be a strange craze among men and women in this age. The cry is try to be young as long as you can. But it is a futile endeavor. Old women are using all sorts of artificial means to hide their age, but such camouflage will never bring back the spring of youth. Man may just as well realize first as last that middle age and old age are his portion, if he is spared to the age of threescore years and ten, and we should gracefully adapt ourselves to these succeeding stages rather than mentally refuse to become old. For there is a richness and mellowness about old age that is not found in youth. He should no longer be tossed about by wavering opinions, nor should he be seeking new ways to conquer habits and temptations. He should have already found these secrets by actual experience, and having found them, he should be enjoying the fruits of victory. "Did you see the last book by Dr. So-and-so?" he will ask his pastor. "I've heard about it," the pastor may answer, "but I haven't been able to buy it yet." "Well, I want to tell you it is the best I've seen in a long time," and in his settled enthusiasm he goes on to tell his minister the good points of the book and usually ends by saying, "I certainly admire a man when he knows what he believes and then has the gift to say it." But what does such a conviction indicate? Only that he has settled many of his life problems and he now believes with a firmness and security that he never did when younger, and he seeks for kindred spirits in his choice of books. His companion in life may not be so enthusiastic. The home cares may have prevented her from reading as extensively as her husband, but she will rejoice in his discussions, and, whether she tells him so or not, she cherishes a secret joy in these settled convictions and their expression as she meets them in the choice of her girlhood. I think of such a couple who are now about fifty years of age. Their years have been strenuous ones. But now the children are grown and gone. Father's step, while firm, is not so fast any more. They like to sit of an evening, after the sun has set, and discuss the fine points of a good book. But the book under fire is a religious one. Once in a while the children come and say, "Father, have you read such and such a story?" And the father's reply is a rather curt, "No." But the children insist and he, to please them, reads the book of which they have such a high opinion. Of course it is a story and father doesn't get much enjoyment out of it. When the ordeal is over, and his opinion is solicited he says, "Do you know I don't seem to have any relish for such books any more." Of course not. The serious problems of life and their attendant responsibilities have given him a deeper and more settled viewpoint of life, so that now he seeks for messages from kindred spirits and of necessity such messages must be of the type that is heavy, logical, convincing, and yet interesting.

Briefly, we have seen that age has something to do with our reading. The exercise of this gift may be a great blessing or a terrible curse. On the other hand, no reading at all may spell many lonesome hours. For the sake of the day that may come, when years and labors are left behind and the sunset of life has come, may we have wisely chosen in earlier years literature that will have so molded our tastes and desires that, as our eyes grow more dim and our steps more slow, we will have discarded that which is light and frivolous, so that we may enjoy to the full the many available messages on the great issues of life as they affect us now and hereafter.

HOME AGAIN IN INDIA AND SOME THINGS THAT HAVE IMPRESSED ME

By Mina B. Esch

We had a very pleasant voyage. No severe stormy weather, though rough enough across the Atlantic to keep us feeling very miserable. We had as agreeable crowd of passengers as one could ever expect to find on such a trip. You can imagine the real atmosphere on the boat when you know there were almost fifty missionaries, most of them of the Conservative type, and most of them second or third term missionaries.

On Nov. 21 we all began to look for the first glimpse of India and were not disappointed, for at 2:30 P. M. we pulled up to the docks in Bombay. To the few new missionaries all looked strange for I know I thought of how different it was from the time we landed the first time just a week more than nineteen years ago. We spent one night at the hotel in Bombay and the next afternoon found us packed in our new Ford ready for the trip to Dhamtari. This was a new venture for any one of our mission but we did enjoy the trip having good roads most of the way. We traveled almost 900 miles in 3½ days, arriving at Bro. Lehman's bungalow on Monday evening just in time to hear them singing the closing song for the weekly prayer meeting.

As we had no regular appointment to work at once, we took the opportunity to visit some of our missionaries. We spent one Sunday with Bro. Vogts and Sister Kanagy at Ghatula, and enjoyed seeing the fine work carried on there for about forty of the backward girls from the orphanage. They are being prepared spiritually and materially as home-makers. We also spent one day with Bro. Friesens in their roadside clinics and at Sikosa. Surely we must see a harvest of souls from that work soon. As I sat and listened to them following in the simple petition prayers my heart was touched and I could only say, "Lord, give us faith, for these are Thine to be reached by us." Last week we spent most of our time in the annual business meeting, and we all felt it was one of the best there has ever been. I trust some one is giving a report of this meeting; but will just say that the burden of every session was that we might all give ourselves and not only our service, and we expect to see results. There were thirty missionaries present, and twenty-five children; so you see we made quite a congregation when all together.

At this time we are out in camp. We are at Bagtarai, where is located one of our older mission schools. We expect to spend four days here, then go back to Dhamtari for the holiday season, and then make another short tour before taking up the work at the medical station.

Bro. Esch has been working with the boys in the school, giving some physical examinations, and it is amazing how they ever pass even the first class with their weak and diseased bodies due very much to poor nourishment. Think how you would feel to send your children, or as children, to go off to school in the morning with nothing to eat?

Yesterday I visited in the village and one place where we were having a service and trying to present the way of life and salvation one old woman spoke out saying, "Yes that's a good religion for you but we can't understand and we have our religion." Then I asked her, "What is your religion and what does it do for you?" She said, "I try to live so I won't be born something worse than a woman and I'm afraid all the time." How truly she stated the case, for they do live in constant fear. I tried to get her to see that if she accepted Jesus Christ she wouldn't have to be afraid, for our religion teaches that it is when we have sin in our lives that we are afraid. I also told her that it is a false teaching that she will ever be born anything but a woman, and she asked me quite seriously, "How do you know?" I of course tried to tell her in a simple way how God created man like Himself and so different from animals, and how Jesus came as a man and also promised that we should be given glorified bodies in the future world. As she sat there at my feet, how I did long to see the light of the joy of salvation on her face instead of that look of hardness so characteristic of the heathen widow. But it's so hard for them to accept—but brother, sister, we can feel that our work is not in vain, for they at least can not say in that great day, "I have never heard."

We have three Christian families living in the Village of Bagtarai and will have a special meeting with them this evening. I feel they do not realize what an opportunity they have to show what the Christian religion is, but after all I suppose they are doing about as much according to their ability as many isolated Mennonite families do in the United States. You can not even imagine what it means for one or two Christian women to live alone in a heathen village and be kept entirely free from the many things so common among the heathen women. It takes God's grace, and we know that is free for all if they will only use it.

I trust that any of you who support evangelists or teachers will daily remember them and their families. Pray that they may be kept free from the common sins of the people and yet mingle with them in order to give them Christian light and teaching.

One of the greatest pleasures we have had since our return was to meet with the congregation at Shantipur Leper Home for communion. Surely that one body of redeemed souls is worth all our lives in India—broken in body and often in mind, but all the more wonderful that they can grasp the Gospel message. There was a class of twenty-four baptized, and I was told later that one other leper was found weeping after the service because he had not been willing to go on with the class and be baptized. A number of young people are also under instruction, and will be received after more preparation.

Pray for us all. We want to do God's will.

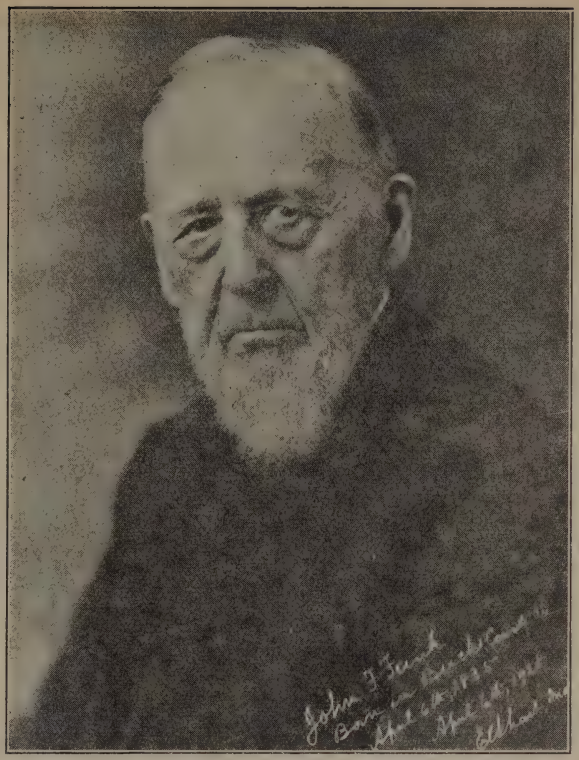
Dhamtari, C. P., India.

SIN AND SORROW

God has linked sin with sorrow. Men join sin with pleasure, but the pleasure passes and the woe remains. Men strive to make a life of sin a life of joy, but they never succeed. Eventually there comes the day of grief. The cup which fills the brain with intoxication and delirious gladness at the last biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. The wild delights of unholy passion give place to that mourning which comes at last when wasting and disease have taken the place of health and merriment. Always this prospect of pain, regret, and misery lies before the sinner in his downward path. Sooner or later he will lament his course. Sooner or later his pleasures will turn to pains, and he will curse the day in which he yielded to their charms. How much better to turn while it is to-day, and escape the grief which clouds the sinner's journey, and the perdition that awaits him at the end. Wisdom's ways are pleasantness. Even if the road seems thorny, yet it leads us home, and we can bear to tread a weary road if it only brings us to the goodly land.

—The Christian.

"God's goodness hath been great to thee,—Let never a day nor night unhallowed pass but still remember what the Lord hath done."—Shakespeare.



A MENNONITE LEADER GONE TO REST

John Fretz Funk was born in Bucks Co., Pa., April 6, 1835; died at his home in Elkhart, Ind., on Jan. 8, 1930; aged 94 years, 9 months, and 2 days. In his death one of the most prominent leaders of the Mennonite Church of the nineteenth century passed from earthly action to his eternal home.

In the spring of 1857, after having taught three successive terms in the public schools of his home community, Bro. Funk went to Chicago, where he was converted in a revival held in one of the churches of the city. During a visit to his early home in the winter of 1859-60 he was baptized and received into the Line Lexington Mennonite Church. He was engaged in the lumber business in Chicago for about ten years. On Jan. 1, 1864, he issued the first numbers of the two papers, Herald of Truth and Herold der Wahrheit, which were afterward recognized as the official organs of the Mennonite Church. On Jan. 19 of the same year he was married to Salome Kratz of his home community. On May 27, 1865, he was ordained to the ministry in the Mennonite congregation in Grundy Co., Ill.

Bro. Funk saw the advantage of having the headquarters for Mennonite periodicals in a larger Mennonite settlement and accordingly he moved his publishing equipment to Elkhart, Ind., in 1867. For forty years after his location in Elkhart his life was a very busy one. He secured the services and support of editors and writers of ability, and many strong men of the Church lent their help in building up the institution that has done much to strengthen and unify the Mennonite Church. On June 6, 1892, he was ordained to the office of bishop for the six Mennonite congregations then in existence in Elkhart Co., Ind.

Among the major works for which Bro. Funk was personally responsible were the translation and publication of Martyrs' Mirror, and the publication of the Complete Works of Menno Simons.

His last public appearance, at which time he made a short address, was at the Mennonite General Conference held near Elkhart, Ind., in August, 1929. May his long, useful life be an inspiration to the many who are at present active in the Church he loved and whose cause he championed.

Are You Interested in Russian Mennonite Relief?

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

RUSSIA FAMINE

1919—1925

TELLS ITS OWN STORY

of the race with the grim reaper DEATH in a land of political revolution and the persecution of a once thrifty and progressive people combined with the results of Civil War and finally the monster FAMINE.

Thousands Were Saved

from starvation through the united effort of Mennonites in America. The book tells how the news of their distress and need first reached America; what efforts were made to bring relief; how our contact was made in Russia; how our food was delivered and finally prepared and fed to the starving.

You Have An Opportunity to help again in the present effort to bring relief to those who have left home and native country for a land of religious freedom and civil rights to hold property. This book is published by the Mennonite Central Committee and every sale brings back to its treasury about two-thirds of the retail price which will become available for further relief work. You are providing a splendid book for your library and at the same time helping the cause of relief through your purchase.

Read the following message from President Hoover, Washington, D. C., regarding the book:

"It presents a wonderful record of generosity and service by those of the Mennonite faith which perhaps only those like myself, with whom the society so effectively cooperated will ever fully appreciate. For a society of such limited membership and such moderate means to have contributed over $1,300,000.00 to these purposes in addition to their other burdens during the war, is evidence of self-denial and generosity which brings credit upon the whole American Life"

The book is substantially bound in cloth with gold back and side stamp. 465 pages with 60 additional pages of illustrations. Size 6 x 8¼ inches. Weight 2lb.
